Some years ago the whole world was horrified by a long series of diabolic murders committed by the so-called Jack the Ripper in the White-chapel district of London. It is now claimed that the solution of the mystery has at last been made public. It seems that the crimes were the work of a prosperous physician who merited and enjoyed the respect and confidence of his acquaintances and friends but who was subject to occasional attacks of a terrible forms of insanity. During these times he made excursions at night from home and committed the crimes while wholly unconscious of his brought here for trial. This necessitatactions. A Nebraska man may not be a genius neither is he a fool if his scheme works but a fraction as well as did that of the cancelled stamp girl in Illinois. She had a chain of fifty links, whereas the Nebraskan has one of but fifteen. Instead, however, of a dead postage stamp he wants a real live piece of silver of the part of this country. value of ten cents. He has a mortgage does not nay running expenses, but these little things can be readily overcome by means of the chain racket if success fully worked. He is very anxious that the 15th letter be returned to him with The basis of this doctrine is that it its concomittant portion of the white would be a menace to the welfare if not metal so that he may know the chain has not been broken. He says that asking for aid has been all the rage in Nebracks and he wants to come in for a little pie himself.

THE white metal "craze" has taken possession of the people of Illinois and it is believed that no move of the gold bugs will be strong enough to counter act its influence. The feeling in favor of the free coinage of silver, if it once takes a foothold in Illinois, will flourish and thrive in all the central states and thence it will spread over the east till the feeling there in its favor will be as strong as it is in the west. The continued demonetization of silver is an impossibility in face of the widespreading sentiment in its behalf.

THE San Francisco Call points with pride to the honors that crowd the brow of one small citizen of the golden state. It appears that one Chas. O.Clarke, of Mott, Siskiyou county, is postmaster, justice of the peace and railroad agent. Arizons, however, had a citizen that could give Mr. Clark the spurs and then run him out of the ring. We refer to the late T. Lillie Mercer, of Tubsc. He was at one and the same time postmaster of his town, and lovingly referred to the inhabitants thereof as "my people" justice of the peace, notary public, missioner of deeds for every state and territory in the union, not even omitting the District of Columbia, school teacher, storekeeper, saloonist, district road master, attorney at law, editor and publisher, agent for the sale power to or in the Western hemisphere. of lands and cattle in Arizona and Mexico, farmer, indian fighter, etc., etc., etc. His versatility was as unlimited as his official qualifications. MONROE DOCTRINE IN GER MANY.

The Vossiche Zeitung, which is one of the leading papers in Germany, says wreck. The story may or may not be that if the United States extends the true. It is easily within the bounds of application of the Monroe doctrine to possibility, and is not improbable, its unrruly neighbors in Central America However this may be, one is forcibly and South America it must undertake also to bear the responsability of the fulfillment of the international obliga-

If the Monroe doctrine was just what the Vossiche Zeitung seems to think it United States to assume parental control of the little states of Central America it also would be obliged to see to it that they have behaved themselves properly and respected the rights of other countries. But that is not the meaning of the Monroe doctrine, and consequently the application of that doctrine to those states involves no such obligation on the

All, practically, that the Monroe docon his place and a newspaper office that trine means is that the United States would not consent to the establishmen by any European nation of its jurisdic tion over a nation of the western hemisphere or over any part of such nation. the institutions of this country for any monarchy of Europe to extend its system to this hemisphere. There was more occasion for its promulgation in the days of President Monroe than there is at present, for at that time the United States was not so strong as it is now and republican institutions were not as highly respected in Europe as they are today. Novertheless it is in itself a proper doctrine, and the United States is bound to stand by it. To refuse to do so would involve a loss of prestige which would cost this country more than war with England would be likely to

It always should be remembered that this doctrine springs from no obligation that the United States has assumed to ward any other nation of the western world. Were the American government to interfere in behalf of such a country it would do so because of and obligation assumed by it to the nation which might be aided. The United States owes the nations of South and Central American nothing, and they would have no right to complain of the violation of an obligation on our part if this government were to leave them to their fate. Therefore, the United States very properly may inquire in each case whether it is one which justifies the interference of this country either in recognition of the Monroe doctrine or merely as an act of friendship. It may be depended upon that the United States will not consider itself bound in its own interests or in any other interest to interfere unless the case is one of an attempt to extend the jurisdiction of a European
